Hint of Blackmail as Victim's Reason for Trying to Break With Slayer Is Flouted.

CHICAGO, March 3 .- Mrs. Isabella Cora Orthwein, who killed Herbert P. Ziegler, a tire agency manager, and who was released on $25,000 ball, is ill at her home and under the care of doctor. The inquest will not be held for several days.

The police have received suggestions that another men may have been in the flat when Ziegler made his furious entrance. This theory is to be investigated, though it receives little credence. The woman's defense is so strong that Judge Barnsa took it into consideration when he fixed the bond.

The police declare that the story told by Eddie Nelson, Ziegler's chauffour, tends to corroborate a theory that blackmail had something to do with the attempt of Ziegler to break off the affair, Nelson said his employer had made up his mind "to reform" and go back to his wife and

"He told me he was going back," said Nelson. "He meant it, too, aithough the night of the shooting he met another woman at Wilson Aveaue and Sheridan Road. I drove there and then took both of them to the Rainbow Gardens, Mr. Ziegler's life had been threatened by Mrs. Orth-wein long before the thing happened. "One night Mr. Ziegler had me drive

"One night Mr. Ziegier had me drive him and Mrs. Orthwein up to the Della on the Milwaukee Road," the chauffeur related. "Mrs. Orthwein was particularly nasty. She smashed two windows in the car and made a nuisance of herself.

"She got out and he told me to drive along a ways just to scare her into coming back into the car. But somebody else came along with a car and pleked her up, and when we saw her driving by, knowing that she was talkative, Mr. Ziegler told me, 'For heaven's sake' to get her and bring har back into our car.

"I drove rapidly, cornering the other car along the road. Two men got out. They wanted to know what I meant by stopping them. I told them I wanted the woman to come back where she belonged and that I had no intention, no matter what their jewelry on her.

"Finally I got her back into our car, and the other car, which had three men and a bold-looking girl in it, drove away. I foolishly thought the incident closed, and did not take their number, but they took ours, and within a few weeks the blackmailing began. It was all directed at Mrs. Ziegler, Mr. Ziegler being away on a business trip. Mrs. Ziegler was terribly upset because she did not want any scandal to reach her daughter. her daughter.

her daughter.

"Mrs. Orthwein wanted a gun in the car. Ziegler gave her one and she had it adjusted near the door knob. I felt she was going to kill him during her spells. I finally took it away and said it had been stolen."

"It was not another woman." said Mrs. Orthwein, "and it was not because he was going back to his wife, it was because my brain was fired by drink and the breaking of the doors and his taunt, 'You dare not-you are not game,' that broke my self-control."

Crepe de chine Gowns—special $52

In the Women's Salons Crepe de chine and crepe back satin, those two materials so much desired this spring, have been used to make three models of women's gowns specially priced for Friday.

All three models, originally, were very expensive, but we have been able to reproduce them to sell at $52 -a very conservative price.

The model shown at the left of the above illustration has the long shawl collar and vestee of finely tucked ecru colored Georgette crepe. Side panels and a wide girdle give it further digitinction.

The other, of crepe-back satin, has loose hanging panels, and a long waistline confined by a soft wide girdle. The third model combines crepe-back satin and Roshanaro crepe in two colors. All three models are made up in brown, midnight blue, black and two-tone combinations.
